

Whistle Stop Cafe: A Secret Film Set & Awesome Fried Green Tomatoes

Author: Sue Rodman | Travel Editor & Advertising Manager

“The Whistle Stop Café may have been created for the Fried Green Tomatoes movie, but this restaurant, about 10 miles down a country road off I-75 in Juliette, Ga., is worth the trip, even if you aren’t familiar with the Fried Green Tomatoes book or feature film...”

Read Sue Rodman’s* full article on 365 Atlanta Family: <http://365atlantafamily.com/whistle-stop-cafe/> which includes a video she updated to YouTube: <https://youtu.be/5NjiYiM6vv4> AND her blog post to Explore Georgia: <http://www.exploregeorgia.org/blog/fried-green-tomatoes-film-spots-juliette>

*Sue Rodman is editor and publisher of the award-winning family travel blog Field Trips with Sue, and produced a TV segment with the same name on CBS Better Mornings Atlanta; as well as the author of 100+ Free Things to do in Atlanta. Her blog is a Nickelodeon Parent’s Pick Winner, a Red Tricycle Best Family Travel Blog and a Parents.com best blog nominee. Recently, Field Trips with Sue merged with 365 Atlanta Family, where Sue is the Travel Editor & Advertising Manager. She is also the Smart Travel blogger for Explore Georgia.